

Transition Forest of Dean

Presents
two key speakers discussing

Climate change & Rising oil prices

What does this mean for the Forest of Dean?

What is the problem?

Richard Heinberg is one of the leading international authorities on the subject of Peak Oil. His contribution to films such as the End of Suburbia, and more recently Leonardo DiCaprio's film 11th hour have made him the 'must have' commentator on life after cheap oil. A staunch supporter of the Transition Movement that is growing across the UK, it is very exciting to have him focus his ideas on the Forest of Dean.

What are the solutions?

Megan Quinn is a prominent community activist in the US. As part of the team producing The Power of Community a film about Cuba's reaction to the loss of Soviet Oil in the ninties, her message is that the increasing cost of food and oil and depletion of resources can have a positive influence on the way that we live. She is a director of Community Solutions, which educates about climate change and promotes community based solutions to our current unsustainable fossil-fuel based, overly centralised way of living.
